Finding Out About School

Teachers ask students questions to find out what students think about school.

Here are some of the questions that teachers may ask:

1. Which bits of school do you really like? Why?
2. Which bits of school do you not really like? Why?
3. What does the teacher do to help you learn?
4. What do you find really hard at school? Why?

The teacher might ask some other questions too. The teacher can write them here:

The teachers want to know what students are really thinking about school, so it is good to give honest answers. Students don't get in trouble for giving honest answers.
